While Superintendent Crawford, of the Washington state hatcheries, was in the city Monday, he was questioned concerning the theory entertained by some fish experts that salmon return to the sea after spawning. Mr. Crawford says this idea is a mistaken one. He has made observations for years and found that the fish, males and females, died at the spawning waters. Occasionally a salmon might be carried out to sea by a freshet, but if so the fish did not live. The female chinook, silver-side and sockeye spawn but once. Mr. Crawford says he is unable to account for the white color of some of the fish, and this peculiarity is one of the few salmon mysteries which has never been solved.

MORE MONEY IS REQUIRED

Hatcheries of Oregon and Washington Need Additional Funds.

OPINION OF J. M. CRAWFORD

Fish Expert Says Plants Must Be Operated to Full Capacity if Supply Is Kept Up.

John M. Crawford, formerly superintendent of the Kalama hatchery, and now general superintendent of the propagation plants of the state of Washington, arrived in the city yesterday. He will go to Chinook today to look over the situation there. Mr. Crawford has had many years' experience in hatchery work and is well versed in the great fish problem. He particularly regrets that it has been necessary for his state to close down some of its hatchery plants, and expresses the hope that provision will hereafter be made for sufficient funds to carry on the work.

"Two hundred years ago," said Mr. Crawford yesterday, "the Columbia river was full of salmon. One hundred years later there were doubtless as many fish in the river as at the former period. There had been no material increase in the number. If all the eggs deposited by salmon in 100 years had developed into fry, the waters of the entire earth would not be vast enough in extent to accommodate them. In other words, salmon have just about held their own, the number having been regulated by the inroads of the natural enemies of the fish. Now, if these natural enemies—other fish—would keep the stock of salmon at a certain stage, it is not to be wondered at that the needs of man would vastly reduce the supply. We must overcome these obstacles and conduct our hatcheries on an extensive scale."

Mr. Crawford is now completing a tour of the Columbia river district of the state of Washington, and from Chinook will go to Kalama, and thence to Whatcom. He states that the total output of chinook salmon of the Columbia river hatcheries in Washington will be almost 12,000,000, as follows:

Kalama	6,128,470
Chinook	2,500,000
Wind river	2,490,000
Wenatchee	600,000
Methow	100,000

Total.....11,818,470
The total output of all varieties of fish of the five plants here named will be about 19,000,000.

Yesterday's paper was greatly delayed and the news matter largely curtailed owing to an accident in the composing room. Accidents will happen and The Astorian trusts that its readers will be patient when misfortune strikes this portion of the realm.

Preparations are being made for the memorial session of the Elks that will be held on the first Sunday in December. The large choir of mixed voices, under the leadership of Miss Laura Fox, meets for rehearsals several times each week and the classic numbers are being mastered perfectly.

The Imperial oyster and chop house has been opened on Commercial street opposite Peterson & Brown's store by S. M. Gallagher, a well known caterer. Mr. Gallagher has a very neat place of business and will keep constantly on hand all the delicacies of the season, including the famous Toke Point oysters. The public is invited to give the Imperial a trial.

In reporting the condition of the cargo of the Duns Law in yesterday's Astorian, some inaccuracies occurred. The wheat cargo caused the trouble, their being 1000 sacks more on one side than upon the other. The removal of the flour was made for the purpose of permitting the appraiser to estimate the damage done which is thought to night fall.

The football game between the Commercial and All Stars next Sunday for the benefit of the Commercial, promises to be a very lively game. Those who attend will see a good game, notwithstanding that this is to be a benefit game. Both teams are getting ready for the event and nightly practice is indulged in. If you want to enjoy yourself and help out athletics, be sure to be present. The game will be called at the usual hour in the afternoon, 2:30 o'clock.

The prospects for a special legislative session are growing brighter. Governor Chamberlain maintains his position that members of the legislature must promise to stop at tax legislation, and he is slowly forcing Multnomah's delegation into line. The legislators from that county have held a meeting and decided that the tax law must be remedied. They will mildly protest against the governor's position, but the chief executive says he will try and struggle along with the cards he holds—a sequence in trumps with the ace at the top. As Multnomah is most concerned, it is not unlikely that the delegation from that county will now try to induce members from other counties to acquiesce in the governor's plan.

City Physician Pilkington stated last evening that there had been no further spread of scarlet fever and that there was reason to believe that the disease would remain confined to the two cases now quarantined. Dr. Pilkington believes that too much caution can not be employed in warding off the epidemic, however, as climatic conditions at the present time are such as to warrant the disease spreading. The two homes that are quarantined are situated half a mile apart and the families are strangers to each other. It is not probable, either, that any communication had been carried on between the two boys, so it is likely that in each case the attack lacked the contagion feature. Fortunately the cases were both taken in hand at the very start and the authorities have the advantage of previous experience in combatting with the affliction.

The Brix Brothers' logging camp on Grays river closed down last Monday evening, the intention being not to resume operations till the first of the year. Yesterday the force of men employed at the camp came over to Astoria and from here they will disperse to their different homes or to other camps. The Brix camp is the first to close down in this section, but it is understood that others will follow its example. In the event of a general cessation of getting out logs it is anticipated that the price of the product will take a jump ahead that will be felt by all connected with the business of manufacturing lumber in its various phases. At the present time the market is sufficiently supplied with logs to keep all the mills going at a good rate, but before the camps get busy again it is not unlikely that a single shift will be employed.

The wedding of Miss Helen Ford and Mr. Martin Knutsen took place at the home of the bride's parents yesterday afternoon. Father Waters officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Minnie Knutsen and Miss Hilda Brunold and Mr. Jacob J. Utzinger was best man. Aside from the immediate family there were only a few friends present. After the ceremony a reception was held and many congratulations were showered upon the happy pair. Then a wedding banquet was enjoyed, and proved a happy conclusion to the occasion. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Knutsen left on the train for Puget sound where they will spend their honeymoon. They will return the first of next week and take up their residence on Ninth street between Commercial and Duane in one of the Spillmeir houses. Mrs. Knutsen is the daughter of Edward Ford, an engineer on the A. & C. R. H., and Mr. Knutsen is one of the popular bookkeepers of the Astoria Electric Company.

DREDGE SOON TO BE AT IT

If Repairs Are Effected Trial Test of Chinook May Be Had Today.

ACCIDENT CAUSES DAMAGE

Bar Is Smooth and Conditions Are Favorable to the Beginning of Dredging Operations.

It is understood that the big sea dredge will have a trial test in the lower harbor today. Major Langitt arrived in the city yesterday noon, went at once to Fort Stevens and it is presumed, boarded the dredge. Major Langitt is accompanied by Captain Hue, an engineer of some prominence. Both of these gentlemen will doubtless continue with the Chinook until the test work is over. The steady, stiff wind of the past few days has reduced the bar to an unruffled smoothness so that operations can be prosecuted there with perfect ease. At first it was contemplated to test the workings of the dredge near her present moorings, but as the time for starting the real work has been somewhat delayed, it is hoped that the vessel will proceed at once to the bar and begin dredging operations.

What probably caused another delay to the dredging is an accident that occurred to the machinery of the Chinook the early part of this week. The exact nature of the damage done is not clear, but it is reported that the accident happened when the machinery was started in motion to see if it was in working order. Some impediment threw the gear out of shape and caused some confusion at the time. It will be necessary to repair the damage before anything can be done, but it is believed that the repairs will be effected today.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES

Something Concerning the First Ward Nominations.

J. W. Panttaja, one of the republican nominees for councilman of the First ward, a carpenter by trade and a member of the carpenter's union, has resided in Astoria for the past 15 years and owns his own home in Taylor's addition. He is known as an intelligent and careful business man, is married and has a family of six children. He is a native of Finland. In his ward he is a leading citizen, taking prominent part in public matters. Mr. Panttaja is well thought of among the people of his section of the city.

John Niemi, also nominated for councilman from the First ward by the republicans, to fill the vacancy caused by the failure of C. R. Morse to qualify, is a resident of the Hinman tract on Commercial street and is manager of A. V. Allen's branch store in West Astoria. He is an old resident, having lived in Astoria 15 years. He is a man of family, a taxpayer, a gentleman of sterling reputation and a prominent citizen of his ward. He is a member of the Retail Clerks' Union. Mr. Niemi is regarded as a very strong man.

Can you figure out how long it will take Herman Wise to sell those suits at $8.90, having sold 18 of them the first day, when not one-tenth of the people knew anything about it?

The fishboat found by Nat Jones, keeper of the Youngs bay drawbridge, last Saturday, has been identified as the property of Tom Johnson, a fisherman who has been missing since Friday night. The friends of Mr. Johnson believe that he was lost in the great storm, but his body has not been found.

Because he would not plead guilty to a charge of simple larceny when given an opportunity to do so in the justice court James Murphy has been committed to the county jail in default of bail, having been bound over to await action by the circuit court charged with larceny from a building. His bonds were fixed at $800. Murphy was accompanied to jail by H. Peters, who is held as prosecuting witness. He was unable to furnish bail of $550, fixed by the court. Murphy was charged by Peters with stealing his valise from a saloon where he had placed it for safe keeping. At his preliminary hearing in the justice court defendant was given an opportunity to plead guilty to the charge of simple larceny from which he could have escaped by paying a small fine or serving a short term in the county jail. Murphy neither acknowledged nor denied his guilt and declined to act upon the advice given him. He stated that he would ultimately "have his rights," but that he was too poor to employ the right kind of a lawyer to defend him. The incarceration of the witness is regretted by the court and the witness himself feels very bitter about the action in committing him to jail, but the law provides for such methods and under the circumstances nothing else could be done. Not considering a possible special term, circuit court will not convene until February at which time the case against Murphy will be heard.
